

“Rum meets Port” is a new and innovative series initiated by Bellamy’s Reserve Rum. Entering new climes here, Bellamy’s Reserve combines selected port wines with aged rum to create new taste adventures.

TAWNY is the name of one of the first two bottling of this series. An eight-year-old column still rum from Panama meets a fine ten-year-old Tawny port. After maturation in ex-Bourbon casks, the rum is refined with the port. Once the marriage has happened and rum & port enjoyed their honeymoon, TAWNY is bottled at 45% ABV.

For transparency being a crucial value of Bellamy’s Reserve, some additional facts: TAWNY is a blend of ~10% port and ~90% rum. The stated dosage of 20,6 g/L is solely based on the natural sugar content of the port wine. For this first batch, a total of 1.386 bottles of TAWNY have been filled.

Nose: caramel, wood, wine joined by earthy notes, tannins, and a touch of cardamom.

Palate: beautiful oily texture and tannins accompanied by orange zest and a pleasant umami aroma enriched with hints of wood and earthy notes.
